Simple Goals in Blogging...

Would you like small action with big results in blogging?

You know that story of the group of people being chased by the hungry lion, and the lesson is that you don't have to be at the head of the group to not get eaten, you only have to be ahead of the last guy?

Yes, it's harsh, but the point is, to succeed you didn't have to put yourself all the way at the top of the group that feels so out of reach and impossible—making you give up before even trying. You only had to do something that moved you slightly forward.

When you are in a massive group, like 3.9 million Mom Bloggers, your slight move forward just left millions a step behind. It's more simple than you think to reach goals in blogging, but it's the inaction that will surely swallow you up.
